

CHAIN

High Tensile Steel Chains are used for hoisting and lifting equipment. These are fabricated as per IS: 3109-1982 standards and reckoned for their dimensional accuracy, high tensile strength, precision and durability. The range is available of various technical specifications which include width, length and breaking force.